Imagine, you enter a room, a beautiful room, carefully arranged and designed, stylish and sturdy. The first impression is surprising, the familiar high-end finish but with a distinctive touch...

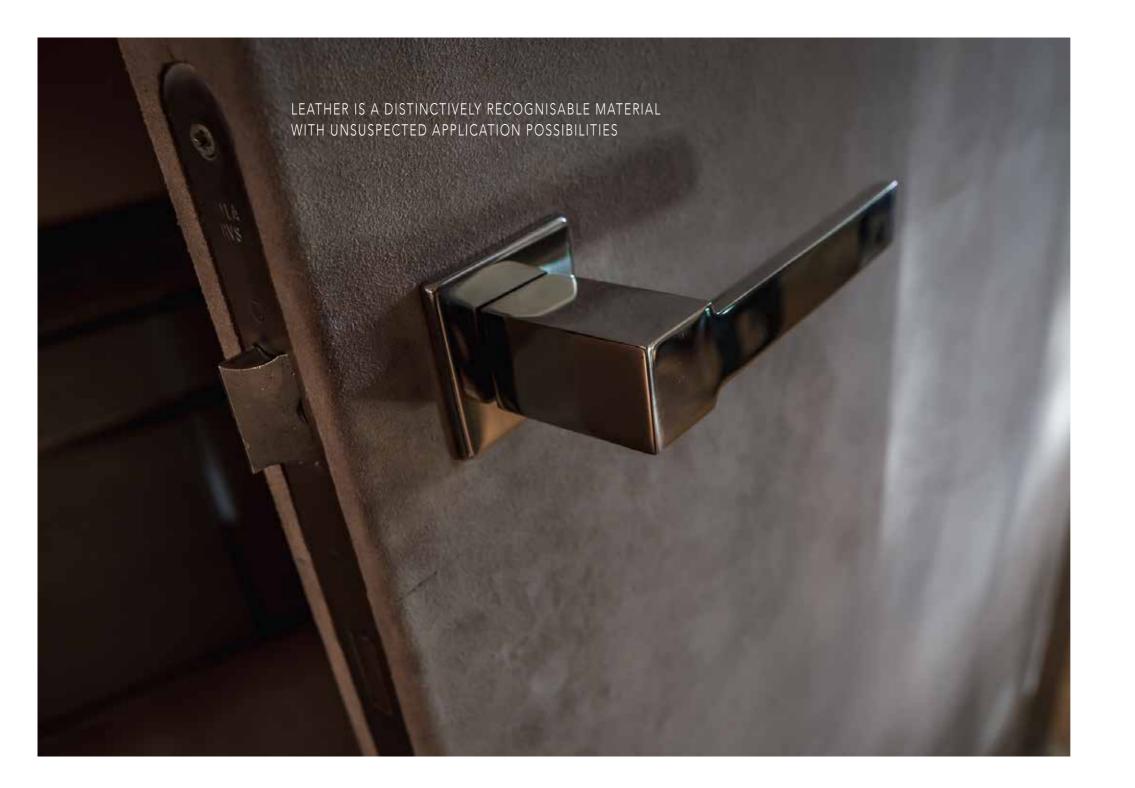

This is the realm of Alphenberg, the world of leather and of the men and women who create an interior that exudes exclusivity, chic and sturdy at the same time.

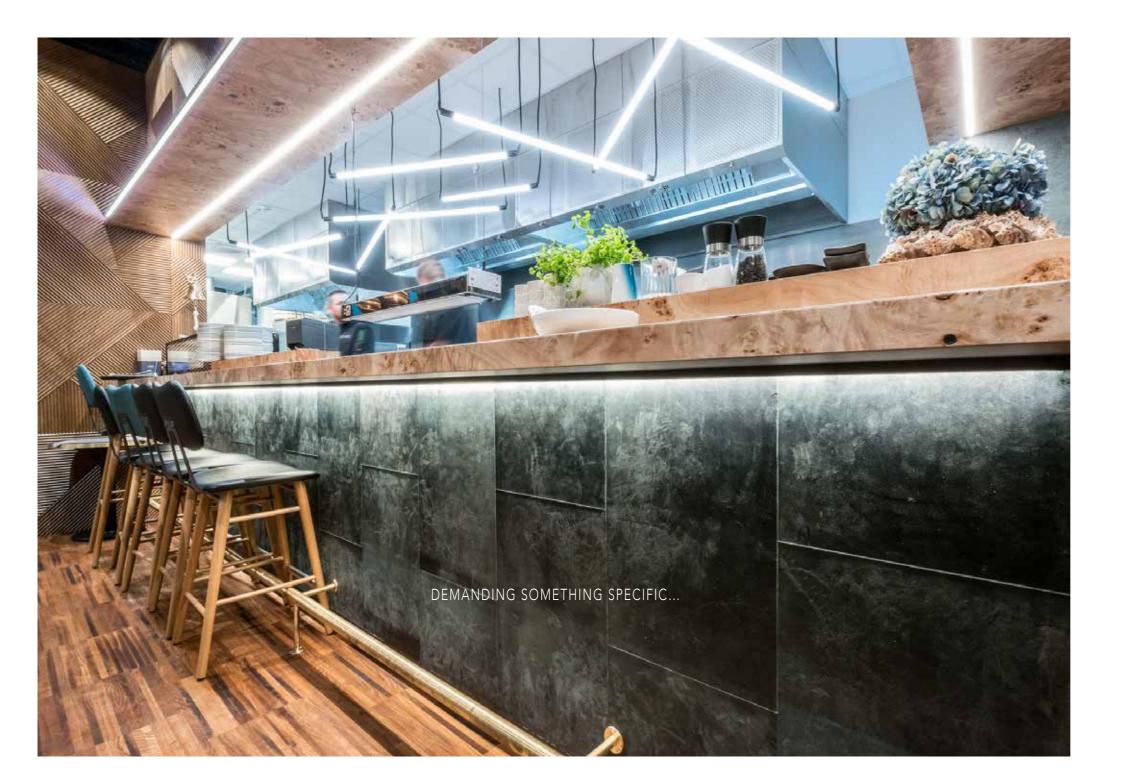

The three marks of distinction characterizing our aim and working-method. ALPHENBERG is your designated partner when it comes to innovative high-end applications in the world of INTERIOR DESIGN and STYLING.

A reliable partner with unequalled professional knowledge and accustomed to out-of-the-box thinking. Therefore ALPHENBERG is able to contribute, often in a surprising way, to the realisation of any thinkable architectural project. Our company's forte is delivering made to measure when it comes to installation, finish and colour-perfection.

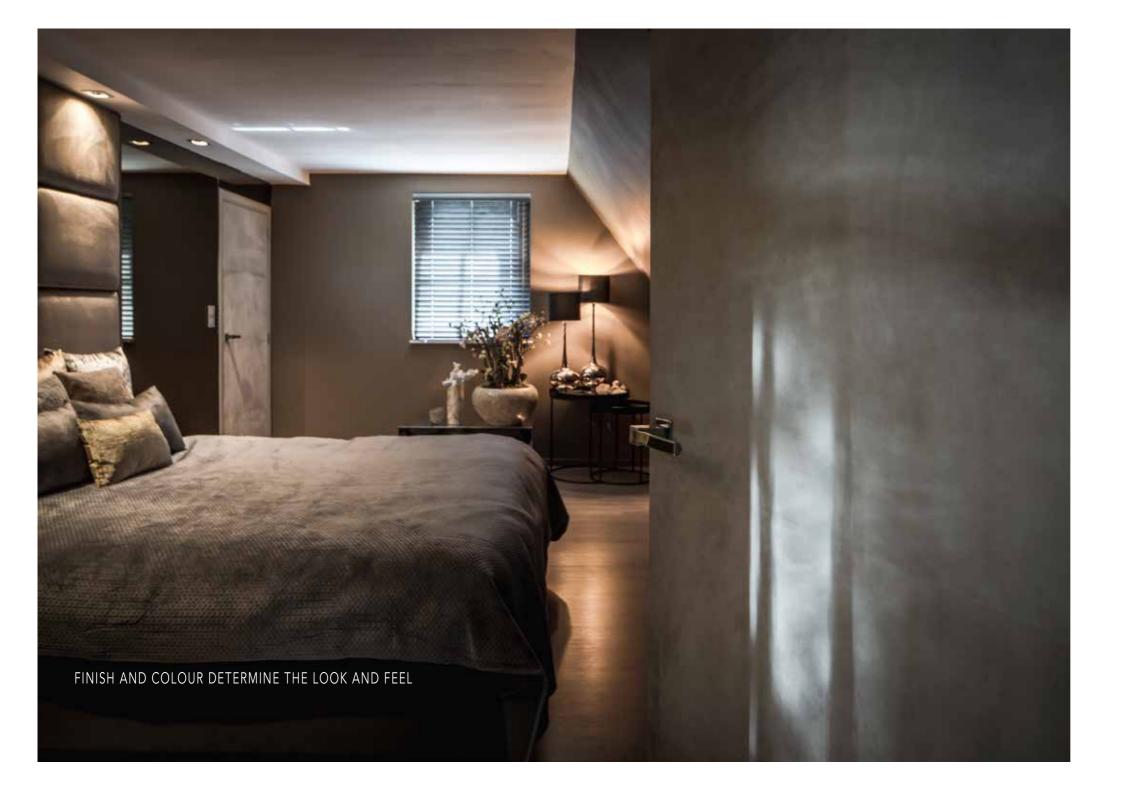

Leather is usually associated with traditional upholstery rather than the covering of floors, stairs, mantelpieces or the walls of a master bedroom. Leather is 'contact-material', the feel is familiar because of our car seat, our favourite pair of shoes or the horse's saddle. It may not be the first thing we think of in regard to interior design but rest assured that it possesses the same incredible look and feel, distinguishing your living and working space from the predictable.

When you are not looking for standard solutions, you are aware of the fact that experience alone is not enough. You desire an interactive partner who can think out-of-the-box, very much hands-on and creative. You may trust ALPHENBERG to be precisely that partner, always ready to respond in the shortest time possible.

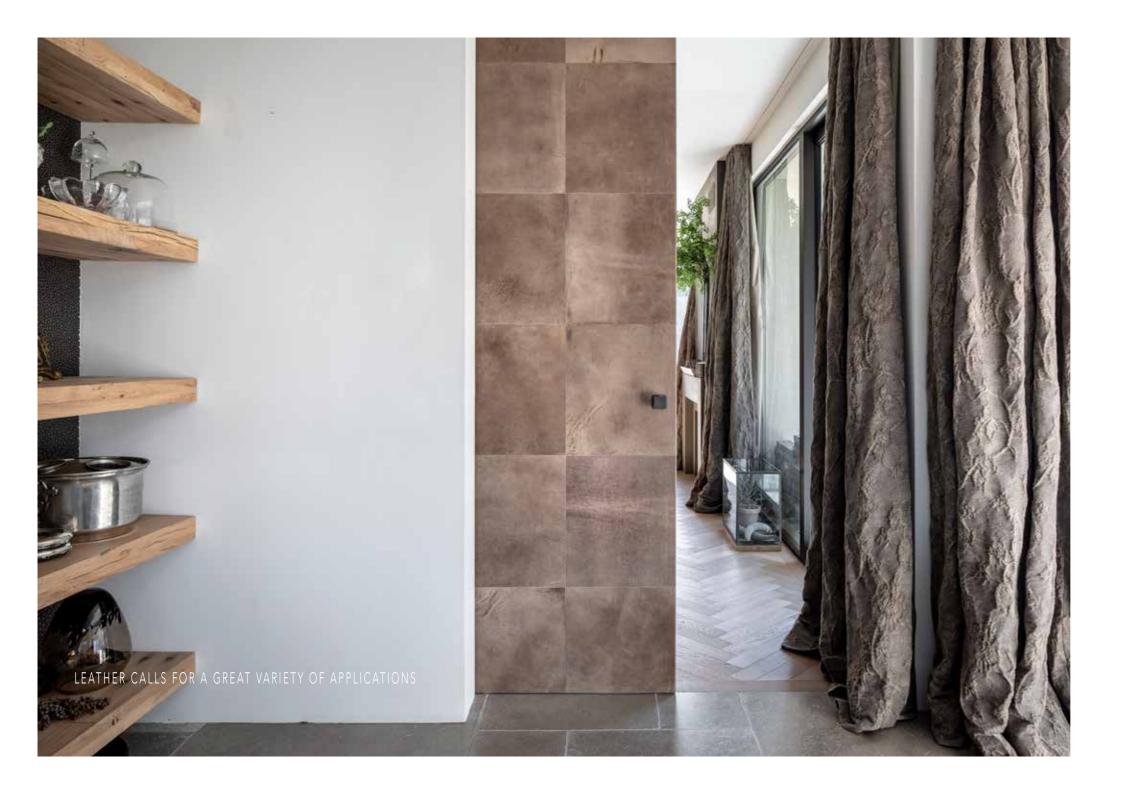

Each and every skin is different. Working with leather demands a constant interplay between specific wishes and possibilities.

Leather is warm, provides excellent insulation, it is strong and firm with a perfectly matured appearance. Leather underfoot is standing with both feet firmly on the ground.

Leather is both versatile and flexible when it comes to its application, a source of inspiration to the creative designer.

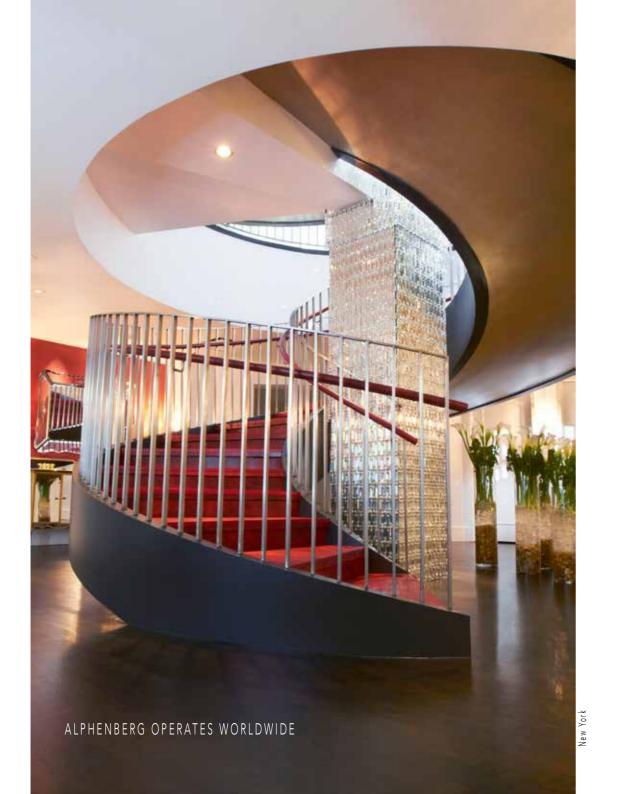

Not only where it concerns the skin but also when it comes to the preparation process. The entire production is under strict surveillance by Alphenberg, from the raw material to the desired end result. It is the only way to guarantee our high quality standard.

Stairs. In any form or construction a powerful architectural element functional and determinant more than just a connection between two floors...

...so why not make it leather!

You'll find us in over 20 different countries. You'll find us on the walls, stairs and floors of private homes and public venues, in office buildings and in ships.

You can find us in the intimate ambiance of a fine restaurant but also in the warm atmosphere of a master bedroom or an avant-garde loft, or in a stylish lounge, perhaps over a splendidly designed fireplace. Wherever you may find us, you'll recognize us because we bring that extra bit of character to a space, chic and at the same time sturdy.

Famous designers, architects and leather specialists all over the world have selected Alphenberg as their partner. We deliver and furnish worldwide proving that our unique and honest product has made a claim to fame far and beyond the borders of our small lowland country behind the dunes and dykes.

Perhaps we are therefore a little bit beside our selves with pride... but rest assured, we remain standing firmly with both feet on our leather floors!

That goes for the production process as well as durability. We are conscious of the fact that such a comment has to be meaningful. So we do make an effort when it comes to the raw material, the tannery and the processing of the product. It is a well integrated part of the company ethics and as such an important contribution to the end result.

And it does not come as a surprise that a responsible working method and a stunning result go very well together indeed.

Leather is a 'slow material', the buffalo skin the reflection of life in a rough terrain. Skin is not something that can be 'made', it comes into being through the process of living and growing. Specialists can 'read' such a skin, they recognize its unique qualities and possibilities.

Our clientele expects mastership and Alphenberg can deliver, in the traditional sense but also in a contemporary and dynamic way. It calls for an open mind and a creative spirit to achieve the optimal result with every new commission.
